

CITY IN TURMOIL THROUGH RIVALRY OF TWO LEADERS

More Trouble May Result at Port Au Prince if Simon Presses Claim.

United States Minister is Criticized.

ALEXIS HAS FORTUNE SAVED

Port Au Prince, Dec. 3.—Rioting in the city compelled troops to fire on the mobs. Twelve were killed and scores wounded. Martial law virtually prevails. General Poitevin is made military governor. Mobs attacked residences and stores of Alexis' friends. They looted the contents and tried to burn the stores. Troops rushed to the scene and fired on the rioters. The mob later attacked the seminary where there were many refugees. Troops again dispersed them. Order now prevails.

Port Au Prince, Dec. 3.—Hayti is quiet but it is feared the rival ambitions of Legitimé and Simon may cause a clash. Alexis is preparing to sail for France, where he has a fortune stored. Simon, with his victorious army is expected tomorrow. If he accepts Legitimé as president then there will be no further trouble. It is feared Simon favors General Firmin or may proclaim himself dictator. There is much feeling against the American Minister Furness. He is accused of urging Alexis to resist. Placards attacking him are posted throughout the city and a recall is demanded.

Washington Hands Off. Washington, Dec. 3.—There is no intention of the United States to interfere in Hayti. Alexis' overthrow is regarded as an internal matter. Unless the rights of Americans and other foreigners become jeopardized it will allow affairs to take their own course. In case of rioting and disorders warships on the scene will restore order. Charges against Furness are not considered serious.

Alexis Leaves Palace. At the last moment President Alexis yielded to the urging of those about him and decided to take refuge aboard the French warship. At 5 o'clock a salute of 21 guns announced his departure from the palace. Thousands had gathered there early in the day and they had surged round the entrance, threatening to tear down the walls to drive out the president and his loyal followers.

As the hours passed the mob became infuriated, shouting for him to leave the country. The mob was armed, and men and women, beside themselves with rage, heaped curses on the head of the aged man who had been deposed from the presidency, but who had fiercely expressed a determination to fight to the last.

French Flag Protects Him. So serious was the situation that French Minister Carteron and other foreign representatives, together with members of a special committee, forced themselves upon the president, who finally consented to withdraw.

EXPORT TRADE IS MORE EQUITABLY DIVIDED IN OILS

Standard's Business Falls from Seventy to Eighteen Percent of Total.

Competitors Are Now Making Better Showing.

CALIFORNIA COMPANY DEAL

New York, Dec. 3.—John Archbold explained the growth of the mysterious Pacific Oil company at the Standard hearing today. The Standard bought it in 1900 for $761,000 and then capitalized it for a million. The capitalization was increased gradually to $16,000,000 and the name changed to the Standard Oil company of California. The witness insisted that a vigilant search failed to disclose the contract with the Barnsdall Oil company, which received a $7,500,000 loan. Archbold admitted the Standard's export business has decreased from 70 per cent of the output in 1870 to 18 per cent now. He admitted that competitors are making a better showing. He admitted the Standard doesn't pay duty on oil shipped to England.

BURIED UNDER 10 TONS OF DIRT AND GRAVEL—LIVES

Although buried alive with ten tons of gravel, Robert Kimble, a colored employee of the county gravel pit at Lone Oak, has lived to tell his tale. His right shoulder and five ribs are fractured, while his whole body is terribly bruised, and his physicians are dubious about his recovery, although this afternoon he was resting easy. The exact seriousness of his injuries can not be ascertained.

When Kimble and the other employees of the pit started to work a large boulder was overhanging the pit. The rains this week loosened the gravel, and soon after Kimble began using his pick in the gravel below in the pit, the overhanging gravel fell. Six other men were in the pit, but they escaped, while Kimble was caught under the gravel and buried alive. His companions rushed to his rescue, and after removing six inches of gravel Kimble was able to breathe.

He was unconscious, but Dr. R. C. Gore was called and gave him medical attention. His body was buried under two feet of gravel, and it took some time to throw off the layer. He is bruised all over the body, and it is miraculous that the ten tons of gravel did not kill him instantly.

Kimble is 21 years old and is unmarried. He worked for Will Lane, the contractor.

PLANTERS SEEK TO PREVENT ENFORCEMENT OF PLEDGES OF 1908 CROP TO ASSOCIATION

Ask for Receiver for Association on Ground of Failure of Consideration for Pool and Mismanagement

USURIOUS INTEREST, SPECULATION IN TOBACCO POOLED BY FARMERS AND OTHER THINGS CHARGED.

Declare All Profit Besides Actual Expenses Should Go to Planters, But is Being Wrongfully Withheld.

All the complaint and dissatisfaction over the management of the Planters' Protective association of Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia, was summed up in a suit filed last evening in the circuit court here for a receiver and an accounting of the association's affairs. The main purpose of the suit is to avoid delivering the 75,000 hogheads of the 1908 crop pledged to the association, to compel the sale of the remaining holdings of the 1907 crop, a distribution of the funds alleged to be wrongfully withheld from the members, and the restitution of alleged usurious interest.

The law enacted by the last legislature, which makes it a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of $250 for a planter to violate a pledge to deliver his tobacco to the association, and affords the association a right to injunction and the exacting of damages and costs for refusal to deliver the crop is what provoked the suit.

The action was instituted by Lee Walters, T. A. Greenwell, Ed Willett and J. M. Fuller in behalf of themselves and 5,000 other farmers, members of the association. Besides the association, C. H. Fort, president; E. T. Bondurant, vice president; F. G. Ewing, general manager; John D. Sales, auditor; George Snadon, treasurer; Mrs. N. E. Green, secretary; John B. Allen, Joel Fort, W. E. Frazer assistant general manager; A. N. Veal, John McKeage, Farmers' Tobacco Pricing and Storage company, Western District Warehouse company, of Paducah; C. O. Brown, Z. C. Graham and Charles Graham, partners, doing business under the firm name of Z. C. Graham & company and Frank McMurtry are sued.

In a petition which recites the purpose of the association to be a means by which planters co-operate to secure the highest price for their tobacco, and the consideration of the contract to pool to be the mutual benefit, the plaintiffs declare that the farmers were to receive the whole amount derived from the sale of their tobacco, minus the actual cost of maintaining the pool.

This purpose of the association has utterly failed, they say, through the "gross carelessness and malfeasance" of defendant association, and the agreement to pay to the planters everything, except the actual expenses of the pool, has been violated.

Among other things, it is charged that instead of advancing money to planters on their tobacco, the defendants loaned the farmers money at eight percent interest on their tobacco and pledged the same tobacco to banks, where they got the money to loan the farmers at six per cent. The plaintiffs claim this is wrong and usurious and demand back $25,000, which they declare has been secured from members of the association in this way.

They charge that agents and representatives of the association in Paducah and elsewhere have been speculating in tobacco belonging to members, by buying the tobacco from the association at a price far below its actual market value.

The petition charges that the association has converted to its own use at least 50 pounds per hoghead or 4,500,000 pounds, valued at $450,000, belonging to the members of the association, which has been sold and the proceeds withheld.

It charges that the association is now wrongfully withholding from distribution fully $50,000 derived from the sale of tobacco, and that the officers are diverting money under the guise of paying salaries and expenses to themselves.

The petition charges that by reason of bad handling of tobacco it has been damaged and the plaintiffs have suffered irreparable loss and the association is now refusing to sell tobacco or allow the plaintiffs to sell it, although they can get a price satisfactory to them.

The Size of the Deal. Something of the size of the association is indicated by the amount of tobacco handled by it during the last three years, as set forth in the petition.

In 1906 it handled 40,000 hogheads, amounting to 60,000,000 pounds, and valued at $7,000,000. In 1907 it handled 50,000 hogheads, amounting to 80,000,000 pounds, and valued at $8,000,000. The petitioners declare there is pledged of this year's crop 75,000 hogheads, valued at $12,000,000. They do not want to deliver this crop because the association has failed in the mutuality of benefit, which is the consideration for the contract to pool; and the petitioners aver, that unless the court does something to straighten out the affairs of the association and restore confidence, it will go to pieces.

Mike Oliver, of Paducah, and Shemwell and Reeder, of Benton, are attorneys for the plaintiffs.

Culmination of Trouble.

This suit is the culmination of the troubles of the Planters' Protective association, whose members have been meeting in all sections and adopting resolutions, condemning the management and demanding a loose leaf pool this year. The Black Patch, which is embraced in the territory covered by the association, has been the scene of repeated night rider outrages during the last three years and for twelve months soldiers have been on guard in many counties of the Patch.

The territory embraced includes, McCracken, Ballard, Fulton, Hickman, Carlisle, Graves, Marshall, Calloway, Lyon, Trigg, Christian, Caldwell, Todd, Hart, Simpson, Hopkins, Logan and Webster counties in Kentucky, and Henry, Stewart, Montgomery, Robertson, Sumner, Weauley and Dickson counties in Tennessee.

This association was organized in September, 1904. It is successor to the Dark District Tobacco Growers' association; but formed a more complete organization than the old one.

The original association was capitalized at $1,000, divided into 1,000 shares. When the new association was quietly organized in Tennessee, a news item reported its capitalization at $200,000, and tobacco men set up and took notice; but it was discovered that this was an error and the number of shares was cut down to 200. It is known that 95 shares are held by the organizers, the officers and the directors of the association, but the general public does not know who holds the controlling interest—the other 105 shares of stock.

When seen this morning Charles Graham, one of the defendants, said: "That suit does not amount to a snap of the fingers. It's just an attempt of a few who have placed their tobacco in the pool, to release themselves. It is nothing to bother about."

Service Made. Summons for the defendants in the action were issued today and mailed to the sheriffs of the different counties in which they are located.

The four farmers bringing the suit are all residents of McCracken county and are tobacco growers.

No answer is required of the defendants until the first day of the January term of court which begins the first Monday in January. After that time if all the parties are before the courts the plaintiffs may by giving notice to the defendants ask the court to appoint a receiver at once and thus expedite matters.

Attorney Oliver stated this morning that he would begin at once to prepare evidence in the case, having already a number of affidavits and other information from which a basis for the suit was formed.

The Spanish Deal.

Fulton, Ky., Dec. 3.—(Special.)—A deal is about to be closed with the Spanish government to buy all the lugs of the 1907 crop in this section. Growers in this vicinity have 5,000 hogheads on hand. The price agreed on will bring $500,000 to this city and vicinity. This tobacco is in the pool.

It is understood here that there are about 7,000 hogheads of lugs, some 4,000 of which are in Paducah and vicinity. The Spanish government is expected to buy at least 4,000 hogheads and the French regle the remainder at 5 cents.

SENATORS ON THEIR DIGNITY

Over New Peace Pact With the Japanese.

No Treaty, But Merely an Exchange of Notes on the Pacific Situation.

IS SECRETARY ROOT'S PLAN

Washington, Dec. 3.—It developed that the senate has—or thinks it has—a quarrel with Secretary Root over the manner in which the new peace pact with Japan has been formed, and as the first step in what promises to be an animated row it is probable a resolution will be reported next week out of the senate committee on foreign relations calling upon the state department for all of the papers and other information bearing upon the subject. It is by adopting such a resolution as this that the senate usually starts a fight with the executive branch of the government.

The senate sees in the new "agreement" or "exchange of notes" another executive usurpation. The constitution of the United States makes the senate part of the treaty-making power and provides that no treaty shall be effective unless it is ratified by the senate. It grates on the nerves of the senators that they should be excluded, contrary to the peace and dignity of the constitution, from any part in the epochal diplomatic achievement that has just been concluded. The state department is under suspicion of having stolen a march on the senate.

In order to circumvent the senate, the administration invoked a modern process which isn't treaty-making in the constitutional sense, but which is tantamount to the same thing. This process is known as note-exchange. The administration for a long time has chafed under the restraint of having to run to the senate for approval whenever it wanted to make a treaty. The senators did not at ways, or often, for that matter, think like the president thought. It became necessary, according to the administration view, either to keep out of the treaty business or else devise some way to give the senate the go-by.

Secretary Root's Plan.

Secretary Root, brainy and resourceful, hit upon the plan of swapping notes. Washington wrote to Tokyo and Tokyo wrote to Washington and in this way an agreement was patched up which does all the work of a treaty and yet is not a treaty. Never before was so momentous a diplomatic proposal framed up in such form.

The senate is going to turn its coldest and haughtiest stare on this new form of making treaties. Furthermore, it is going to know why the senate was ignored in these negotiations. Some of the senators are so mad that they are seeing things. They profess to believe that the new American-Japanese agreement is nothing more nor less than an entangling alliance which may sooner or later involve the United States in a worldwide war. From indications, many an hour will be spent discussing the subject in the senate this winter, and the particular question which will be submitted and debated upon one side and down the other is whether the senate is going to submit to being bounced out of its time-honored rights by this patent process of treaty making.

MESSAGE FROM DEAD EMPEROR

Presented by Tong Shoa Yi to Roosevelt.

For Remittance By United States of Remainder of Boxer Indemnity—
President's Message.

HIS THANKS IS EXPRESSED

Washington, Dec. 3.—"Long may your excellency enjoy good health and happiness; may the American people be ever blessed with prosperity and peace. These are our heartfelt wishes."

The above are the sentiments expressed in the concluding sentences of a letter from the late emperor of China to President Roosevelt handed to him by Tong Shoa Yi, special Chinese ambassador, thanking the United States government for the remission of $14,000,000 of the indemnity guaranteed by China for damages resulting from the Boxer rebellion.

The presentation of the letter took place in the blue parlor of the white house. Tong, who was accompanied to the white house by Prince Tsai Fu, as first secretary and a dozen other members of his suite, was introduced to the president by Acting Secretary Adee of the state department in the absence of Secretary Root who was confined to his home by a slight indisposition.

The letter declares that China has always maintained most friendly relations with the United States, recites the magnanimity of the United States in remitting the remainder of the Boxer indemnity and expressed most grateful thanks.

The president replied briefly, expressing his appreciation of the emperor's letter, expressed sorrow over the emperor's death and declared that the sending of a special embassy and the letter itself were fresh manifestations of the sincere confidence, good will and friendship between the two countries.

"UN" OR "IN."

Says the Ida County Pioneer: "Unconscionable," said the Sioux City Tribune in the last sentence of its first editorial Thursday. "Unconscionable" is the word, Mr. Kelly, and you should become better acquainted. Stick to your Latin "in" if you will we prefer the English "un," an inseparable prefix meaning, in that vigorous language, "not." King James' reviewers knew their English. "And changed the glory of the unconscionable God."—Rom. 1, 23. "In" is a prefix of Latin origin. It is cognate with the English "un," says the Worcester. The Tribune is determined

Danderine

Grows Hair and we can PROVE IT!

DANDERINE is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful. It at once imparts a sparkling brilliancy and velvety softness to the hair, and a few weeks' use will cause new hair to sprout all over the scalp. Use it every day for a short time, after which two or three times a week will be sufficient to complete whatever growth you desire.

A lady from St. Paul writes in substance, as follows:
"When I began using Danderine my hair would not come to my shoulders and now it is away below my hips."
Another from Newark, N. J.
"I have been using Danderine regularly. When I first started to use it I had very little hair, now I have the most beautiful long and thick hair anyone would want to have."

NOW at all druggists in three sizes 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle

Danderine enjoys a greater sale than any other one preparation regardless of kind or brand, and it has a much greater sale than all of the other hair preparations in the world combined.

HOW IT MIGHT HAPPEN. VIII.

There was room inside the car—even on the platform—but these two men wanted to ride on the steps. It was risky for them to ride on the steps, anyway.

But some one wanted to get off and in the narrow space, without a chance to reach for the hand rails, this some one tripped forward and was hurt. It might happen exactly that way.

The steps are put on a car so that people can get on or off. When you stand on the steps you cause the Company some ANXIETY. But you cause the other passengers DISCOMFORT and DANGER. Suppose you are one of the other passengers? Then be cautious—wait till the way is clear, so that you can get off without a CONTORTION. Make it INCONVENIENT for the persons who insist upon riding on the steps.

MANY TROOPS

EN ROUTE HOME FROM THE DARK PATCH.

Young Veterans of the Night Riders
Wait—Leave Equipment to Be Checked Up.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Dec. 3.—All night Sunday night and all day Monday soldiers, who had been doing duty all over this end of the state, were arriving here, turning in their homes. Those who arrived Sunday night came in on horseback, having covered long distances through rain and mud. They showed the effects of the protracted and arduous ride, too, but had in no wise lost the cheerful, buoyant air which has characterized nearly all of the men. Among those who came through here were the Bowling Green detachment, which has been on duty at Cobb; the Henderson boys, who have been at Golden Pond; the Pineville detachment that have been at Cadiz and Hickman; the Madisonville soldiers, that have been at Gracey and those who have been at the Sear Line Works. The Hopkinsville soldiers, who have been at Dawson, arrived last night. The Owensboro troops which have been stationed at Princeton went direct to Henderson from that place. The soldiers at Dyersburg belong to the Marion company and they of course did not come here. Only the detachments at Murray and Eddyville are now in service.

All of the equipment will be sent here and checked up before being sent to the arsenal at Frankfort. This will entail a big amount of labor upon the quartermaster and his assistants for every separate article must be turned in or satisfactorily accounted for.

All of the soldiers came in here with their pistols at their side, the army roll across their shoulders and their Krag Jorgensen in hand. Some of them freely admitted that they were glad to be relieved and go back home once more, while others said that the experience had been one of much value to them and they would have been willing to continue on duty. All of the men, most of whom are boys in years, show the effects of the service; the outdoor life has bronzed their skins and hardened their muscles as nothing else could have done; the forbearance they have had to exercise at times and the individual responsibility which has often-times been put upon them have taught them lessons which they will never forget and which now gives them an air of maturity and self-confidence, which is not shown by many men in the ordinary walks of life. Should the soldiers be needed again they will come into the field thoroughly trained and acquainted with the situation, and not the novices that were called upon earlier in the year. —New Era.

GREAT 1909 CROP

BIG ACREAGE OF TOBACCO TO BE PUT IN IN FAYETTE.

All Counties Busy With the Work of Preparing for the Delivery.

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 3.—Several hundred men are at work at Maysville, Ky., receiving and preparing for the shipment of tobacco recently purchased by the American Tobacco company in the Eastern district of the Burley Tobacco Society, which will amount to about 20,000,000 pounds. This tobacco will be handled as rapidly as possible at Maysville. The remaining 60,000,000 pounds will be handled at Lexington and Louisville.

Already tobacco beds are being burned for crops next year, which are expected to total the greatest in the history of the industry in Kentucky. It is regarded as a foregone conclusion that the burley tobacco branch of the American Society of Equity will continue next year, but that no embargo will be placed on the growing of a crop. Growers evince a desire to continue membership in the society if a crop is allowed.

Princeton, Ky., Dec. 3.—As a result of the arrest of several members of the Woodmen of the World at Hopkins store, in this county, last Thursday night, by four soldiers doing patrol duty, a suit for $5,000 damages was filed here last Saturday. The suit was filed by Sidney Smith and W. H. Malone through their attorney, R. W. Tinsley, against Capt. H. I. Gans and the four soldiers making the arrest, and by McFarland L. C. Franks, R. D. Cook and William Kanady, for malicious assault and false arrest. Papers were served Saturday, but not until today was the suit generally known.

Daily Thought.

A beginner is always a good man.—Martial.

Taft carried Ohio by a bigger margin than McKinley did either time.

Now, will somebody please file a supplemental pleading for ancillary administration of the night rider affairs.

Little Pu Yi, emperor of China, will not be relieved from the regency until he is able to pronounce his new name.

In China, as in the United States, the fight for the throne will begin in earnest as soon as the real issue is discovered.

As soon as Mr. Bryan has acquired a farm in the majority of states he will be in a position to bid for their electoral votes through local pride.

It is a remarkable fact that the customary splendor of a coronation is always dispensed with out of respect to the memory of the late ruler.

The Kentucky State Journal is indignant over a report circulated that a dog fight in the circuit court room would be a feature of the Franklin county bench show.

Mayor Ed Miller called a korus at J. R. Smith and Son's store last night to show the Republican councilmen how he could defy The Sun. It would have done Dr. Bass' heart good to hear him.

Instead of meeting to divide the offices it looks as though the members of the general council had better meet to devise means of cutting down the number of offices.

THE MAYOR AND HIS FRIENDS.
Last evening The Sun solemnly warned Mayor Smith against a step he was reported to contemplate; this morning the News-Democrat opens its arms in welcoming invitation to him. No happier coincidence could have been arranged to reveal to the mayor the fallacy of such a step. The suggested policy of the mayor was "let the News-Democrat has not Tuesday," to condemn.

the use of printing timid words, when bold speech has failed?

The hand that guided the pen is as true a hand as the mayor has found in Paducah since his inauguration; the mind that directed that hand harbors no guile, but only honest affection for the mayor. There was no malice in the article; nor does The Sun nor the writer himself agree with the harsh criticisms of those interviewed—but, those things were being said, and real friendship makes no parley with sycophancy. Sometimes the hand of love seems more cruel than indifference. There may have been no call for any warning. The Sun's regard for the success of Mayor Smith and his sympathy with his policies may have conjured fears that were groundless. But there were the stories; there was the complacent attitude of the Democratic organ; and on the other hand were the true blue Republicans agitated and already embittered for what they apprehended the mayor intended doing, and The Sun spoke—for that conservative element of the party that has stood by Mayor Smith from the inception of his campaign to the present good hour.

We believe the surcharged atmosphere has cleared. The party knows where The Sun stands; we think we know where Mayor Smith stands; some other people know where they get off, and this isn't any apology, either.

Republican members of the general council who were tricked into a framed up caucus should be men and repudiate the trick.

THIEVES.

There is an element of nobility in the character of the pickpocket and sneak thief, that is utterly lacking in the make up of a thief like Judge Boone whose crime required no courage, physical or moral, but rather the opposite, and whose peculations were the result of an entire absence of idleness. Such a man would commit any crime against those nearest to him, if he were not restrained by fear of the consequences and his ability to satisfy his wants by less hazardous methods. The fact that Boone stood high in lodge and church circles during the period of his criminal career emphasizes his lack of character.

Whether such deficiency is inherent or whether improper early training is responsible, is a question; but here is a lesson to parents. Children should be brought up with a careful regard for their honor, and a sense of responsibility in life. Many a man has been virtuous because he never has been sufficiently tempted. Many a capable subordinate has fallen victim to opportunity; because his parents did not reinforce his backbone with that impregnable element of character that could not even consider betrayal of a trust as a possibility.

Booe did not hold his lodge honors as something up to which he must live; he did not take his church associations as something sacred. He did not consider the confidence of the officials under whom he served and the public trust as something to be guarded dearest than life. He recognized only the eleventh commandment: "Thou shalt not be found out." Some people may look upon him as degenerate, as lacking in a quality of mind. It may be so. There may be children so weak that they can never be trusted. In that case, it was duty, Booe's employer's duty to investigate his record at least. He had a bad one; but neither Auditor Hager, nor Auditor Coulter seemed to have discovered either his record or his conduct.

CURRENT EVENTS.

The Heart of Seneca.

When we come once to value our flesh above our honesty we are lost. There is so wonderful grace and authority in virtue that even the worst of men approve it and set up for the reputation of being accounted virtuous themselves.

I will govern my life and my thoughts as if the whole world were to see the one and to read the other; for what does it signify to make anything a secret to my neighbor when to God (who is the searcher of our hearts) all our privacies are open. Virtue cannot lie hid, for the time will come that shall raise it again, even after it is buried, and deliver it from the malignity of the age that oppressed it.

It was a long time that Democritus was taken for a madman, and before Socrates had any esteem in the world. How long was it before Cato could be understood. Nay, he was affronted, contemned, and rejected; and people never knew the value of him, until they had lost him.

When a man comes once to stand in need of fortune, his life is anxious, suspicious, timorous, dependent upon every moment, and in fear of all accidents. How can that man that shrinks at every motion of pleasure and pain resign himself to God and bear his lot, whatever it be, without murmuring and cheerfully submit to providence.—Penny Classics.

"What the devil will come of this business?" thought Markart as he followed them over the little bridge which spanned the canal and thence to the door of the Golden Lion. Behind them still, he passed the seats on the pavement and entered the great saloon. As Misticth and his companions came in three-fourths of the company sprang to their feet and returned the salute of the newcomers. So strongly military in composition was the company—officers on one side of a six feet high glass screen which cut the room in two, sergeants and their inferiors on the other. A moment's silence succeeded the salute. Then a young officer cried, "The king has interfered!" It did not occur to anybody that the commandant might have changed his mind and reversed his decree. For good or evil, they knew him too well to think of that.

"The king interfered?" Misticth echoed in his sonorous, rolling, thick voice. "No. We've interfered ourselves and walked out! Does any one object?" He glared a challenge around. There were officers present of superior rank. They drank their beer or wine discreetly. The juniors broke into a ringing cheer. It was taken up and echoed back from behind the glass screen, to which a hundred faces were in an instant glued, over which here and there the head of some soldier more than common tall suddenly projected.

"A table here!" cried Misticth. "And champagne! Quick! Sit down, my boys!"

A strange silence followed the impulsive cheers. Men were thinking. Cheers first, thoughts afterward, was the order in Slavina as in many other cities. Now they recognized the nature of this thing, the fateful change from sullen obedience to open defiance. Was it only a drunken frolic—or, besides that, was it a summons to each man to choose his side? Choosing his side might well mean staking his life. Misticth rose from his chair, glass in hand.

"Long life to the king!" he shouted. "That's loyal, isn't it? Aye, immortal life!"

The cheers broke out again, mingled with laughter. A voice cried, "Hard on his heir, Captain Hercules!"

"Aye!" Misticth roared back. "Hard as he is on us, my friend!"

Another burst of cheering, and again that conscience smitten silence.

Markart had found a seat near the door and a good way from the redoubtable Misticth and his companions. He looked at his watch. It was nearly 10. In half an hour General Stenovic would be leaving the palace, and it was meet that he should know of all this as soon as possible. Markart made up his mind that he would slip away soon, but still the interest of the scene, the fascination of this problem—such it seemed to him—held his steps banded.

Suddenly a young man of aristocratic appearance rose from a table at the end of the room, where he had been seated in company with a pretty and smartly dressed girl. A graceful gesture excused him to his fair companion, and he threaded his way deftly between the jostling tables to where Misticth sat. He wore court dress and a decoration.

Markart recognized in the young man Baron von Hollbrandt, junior secretary of the German legation in Slavina.

Hollbrandt bowed to Misticth, with whom he was acquainted, then bent over the giant's bulky back and whispered in his ear.

"Take a friend's advice, captain," he said. "I've been at the palace and I know the prince had permission to withdraw at half past 9. He was to return to Slavina. Come, go back. You've and your spree."

"By the Lord, I'm obliged to you!" cried Misticth. "Lads, we're obliged to Baron von Hollbrandt! Could you tell me the street he means to come by?"

"Because"—he rose to his feet again—"we'll go and meet him."

Half the hall heard him, and the speech was soon passed on to any out of hearing. A sparse cheer spluttered here and there, but most were silent. Rastatz gasped again, while Sterkoff frowned and squinted villainously. Hollbrandt whispered once more, they stood erect, shrugged his shoulders bowed and walked back to his

News of Theatres

AT THE KENTUCKY.

Tonight—"Dandy Dixie Minstrels," colored.

Friday—"Graustark."

Saturday, (matinee and night)—"A Stubborn Cinderella."

Next week—Depew-Burdette.

"Dandy Dixie Minstrels."

The Galveston Daily News said of the "Dandy Dixie Minstrels": "The show at the Grand Opera House yesterday, matinee and night was the friend. He sat down and squeezed hand in apology. The pair broke into laughter a moment later. Baron von Hollbrandt felt that he, at least, had done his duty.

The three had drunk and drunk. Rastatz was silly, Sterkoff vicious, the giant Misticth jovially and cruelly reckless, excited not only by liquor, but with the sense of the part he played. Suddenly from behind the glass screen rose a mighty roar:

"Long live Misticth! Down with tyrants! Long live Captain Hercules!"

It was fuel to the flames. Misticth drained his glass and hurled it on the floor.

"Well, who follows me?" he cried.

Half the men started to their feet. The other half pulled them down. Contending currents of feeling ran through the crowd. To one his neighbor gave warning, to another instigation. They seemed poised on the point of a great decision. Yet what was it they were deciding? They could not tell.

Markart suddenly forgot his caution. He rushed to Misticth, with his hands out and "For God's sake!" loud on his lips.

"You!" cried Misticth. "By heaven, what else does your general want? What else does Matthias Stenovic want? Tell me that!"

Amid a dead silence he went out, his two henchmen after him. He and Sterkoff walked firm and true. Rastatz lurched in his gait. A thousand eyes followed their exit, and from 500 throats went up a long sigh of relief that they were gone. But what had they gone to do? The company decided that it was just as well for them, whether collectively or as individuals, not to hope too much about that. Let it be hoped that the cool air outside would have a sobering effect and send them home to bed! Yet from behind the glass screen there soon arose again a busy murmur of voices, like the hum of a beehive threatened with danger.

Outside, big Misticth had crossed the canal and come to the corner where the Street of the Fountain opens on to St. Michael's square. "What say you to a call at the Hotel de Paris, lads?" he said.

"Hist!" Sterkoff whispered. "Do you hear that step coming up the street there?"

The illuminations burned still in the square and sent a path of light down the narrow street. The three stopped and turned their heads. Sterkoff pointed. Misticth looked and smacked his ponderous thigh.

"Dandy Dixie Minstrels." Good crowds were present at each performance and the applause that greeted every stunt that the minstrels did was pretty near deafening at times. The balcony and the gallery were filled to overflowing with those who enjoy the colored minstrel show the most.

"Graustark."

If the public only realizes what an intensely dramatic and thrilling story "Graustark" really is there will not be a vacant seat in the theater when the play is presented here. The company is positively guaranteed by the management to be the equal in every respect of any of the high-class attractions on tour. At The Kentucky Friday, December 4.

"A Stubborn Cinderella."

Among the songs are, "What's the Use," "The First Kiss of the Last Girl You Loved," "If They'd Only Left Poor Adam's Rib Alone," and "Don't Teach Me to Swim Alone." Sale now on.

It is likely we even know his favorite brand, for most of the discriminating smokers of Paducah buy their cigars here. CITY IN TURMOIL

Shouts greeted him as he stepped from the precincts of the palace and into a carriage. Carteron, carrying the French tri-colors sat beside him and the minister threw folds over the shoulders of the deposed president to protect him.

An immense crowd of men and women had assembled at the wharf and the arrival of the presidential carriage escorted by troops was the signal for wild tumult and riot.

Mob Jeur President.

All along the route the people shouted, jeered and cursed at the fallen president, but when the landing stage was reached the mob lost all restraint. The scene was tragic and shameful. Infuriated women broke through the cordon of the troops and shrieked the coarsest insults into the very face of the president who strove bravely to appear undismayed.

They tried to hurl themselves upon Alexis and fought with hands and feet against the soldiers, who found difficulty in forcing them back. In order to disengage them the troops fired several shots.

During this time a space was cleared and Alexis, with the French colors draped about him, was hurried aboard a skiff in tow of a steam launch, his suite tumbling into the skiff after him. As the launch drew away three Haytian gunboats and the French and American warships in the harbor fired a salute to the fallen president.

Blows Aimed at Alexis.

Just as Alexis was embarking a woman succeeded in reaching his side and drawing a knife made a sweep at his body. The blow fell short, however, and before the woman could follow it up with another she was seized by a soldier. A man succeeded in striking the president with his fist but the blow was a glancing one on the neck.

HARVEY FLETCHER HURT BY FALLING FROM WAGON.

Harvey Fletcher, the 14-year-old son of Mrs. Via Fletcher, of 601 Campbell street, was thrown from a wagon yesterday afternoon at Eighth and Campbell streets and cut a gash several inches long in his head and received internal injuries. Several boys playing at the corner of Eighth and Campbell streets, struck the horse that Fletcher was driving with lumps of clay just for fun. The horse bolted and Fletcher was thrown from the seat and struck on his head and the wheels of the wagon passed over Fletcher's body, causing internal injuries. Dr. Jeff D. Robertson and Dr. B. L. Bradley were called and dressed the injuries of the boy. The lad is in a serious condition and the extent of his injuries cannot be learned for a few days.

An important ruling affecting the settlements of estates by administrators was made this morning by Judge Reed, who announced that hereafter no allowances will be made administrators of estates for special services rendered unless a detailed account is filed by the claimant, setting forth the exact time that was given to the work by the administrator, and the value of such services. This statement will be filed and the interested parties may examine it and make objection if they desire.

Judge Reed heard the evidence and arguments in the appeal of the Gilbert-Griffith case this morning and will render his decision tomorrow. The case is the appeal of M. E. Gilbert from the decision of the county judge in removing him as administrator of the estate of W. Y. Griffith.

An order was filed in the case of Adella Gilbert vs. J. M. Gilbert, etc., for a deed to property involved.

A judgment for settlement and division of the estate of Margaret Ashby was rendered in the suit of T. E. Ashby vs. Hallie Ashby, etc.

Z. E. Browne's Will.

The last will and testament of Z. E. Browne was filed for probate this morning. The testator leaves his entire estate to his mother-in-law, Mrs. M. D. Williams, including one-half an insurance policy for $2,000 in the Ancient Order of United Workmen. Mrs. Williams is made executor of the estate without bond.

INSURANCE SUITS

Are Echo of Hopkinsville Night Rider Raids.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Dec. 3.—Suits for $10,000 each have been filed by W. T. Cooper against the Glenn Falls, Rochester German and City of New York insurance companies. The plaintiff alleges that these policies were in force on the brick warehouse on Second avenue east, on December 7, 1937, when the structure was burned as a result of the raid of the night riders. He declares the property was worth $7,500, and that the companies have failed and refused to pay the amounts of the policies.

BANKING LAWS

ARE DEFECTIVE

Comptroller Has Difficulty Enforcing Infractions.

Treasury Officials and Bankers Argue—General Revision Not Looked for but Relief Wanted.

THE MONETARY COMMISSION.

Washington, Dec. 3.—Defects in the methods of bank examination and the inability of the comptroller of the currency to deal with infractions of the banking laws without resorting to offending National banks, were pointed out to the national monetary commission by a high official of the treasury department.

Interested listeners were officers, members of the legislative committee and prominent members of the American Bankers' association who will be given an opportunity later to approve or disapprove of the suggestions for amending the laws of the government and administrative features of banking.

Any general revision of the national banking laws is not contemplated by the present hearings, all of which are executive. Such changes as will be recommended in all probability will be confined to amendments which can be made without friction between the bankers and officials charged with the enforcement of the national banking laws.

No contest over the currency system or banking laws will be precipitated upon the present congress in the short session. Suggestions of changes of the present laws which meet with opposition of a character that makes their enactment doubtful will be rejected by the commission and be considered later when the whole currency system is taken up.

It is believed, however, there is a substantial agreement between the treasury officials and the bankers that the methods of bank examination should be revised. The treasury officials heard today explained in detail the amendments they think should be made in the banking laws, but many of them dealt with subjects that admittedly would meet with violent opposition on the part of the bankers.

Great interest was shown in Comptroller Murray's request for the passage of a law which would enable him to deal judiciously with minor infractions of the banking laws so as not to inflict distress upon stockholders not responsible for the violations and not to injure a community where the banking institution is situated as would be the case if the bank were closed.

Murray did not complete his statement today. When the bankers have given their views to the commission it is not doubted that it will be possible to draft a bill covering such matters.

EXAMINE BOOKS

GOV. WILLSON HOPES TO PREVENT ANY MORE STEALING.

May Recommend That New Office Be Created—Thinks Comptroller Needed.

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 3.—Complete and careful examination of all the books and records in the various state offices will be made at least once every six months during the term of Governor Willson, by his orders. In this way it is hoped to prevent any jugglery of the accounts of the state and keep an accurate tab on each employee in all the offices, so as to check any steal such as was made by C. E. Boone, claim clerk in the auditor's office. Governor Willson said that the system in vogue in the auditor's office was entirely too loose, and that many changes will be made.

"The present system is not a good one," said Governor Willson. "It is too loose, and there is not a satisfactory system of checking so as to guard against crookedness or inaccuracy. The average business man has a better system of checking up his business than has been used by the state.

"I have thought that a controller, or general disbursing head, through whose hands would pass all the claims and checks issued by the state, should be employed to check against the auditor's and treasurer's offices. With a business that amounts to about $6,000,000 a year, it looks like the state could afford to have such an officer, and it would seem that something like that is needed. The controller would further guard against dishonesty or mistake."

It is probable that Governor Willson will recommend to the next legislature that such an office be created. He has not worked out the idea yet, but is trying to devise some plan by which it would be exceedingly difficult, if not impossible, for any money to be taken from the treasury without a warrant. It is known that at one time Benson Herr, assessor of Jefferson county, was overpaid $9,000 through a mistake, which, by a curious chance, happened to be made by Judge Boone. That mistake was rectified and cost the state nothing, but it showed the necessity for a check against honest mistakes as well as against dishonesty on the part of employees. Governor Willson is going to take the question up with the state inspector and try to devise a strict guard for the state's funds.

Where the Others Failed.

Is it possible that a big trust, one of the biggest and presumably one of the richest and greediest of all, has decided to go out of business? News dispatches would seem to indicate as much, for they announce the appointment of a receiver for "the fish trust," a $6,000,000 corporation in Baltimore, the one that was fined $10,000 under the anti-trust laws not very long ago. After all that we have heard of these fearful octopuses that have been devouring the substance of the people, does it not sound strange that one of them is unable to pay its bills and has gone into bankruptcy? But before the trust-busters tickle themselves to death over this failure, let them contemplate all the idle fisheries, packing plants, storage houses, and steamers employing thousands of men, and what these unfortunate wage earners can do to take care of themselves, their wives and children. Trust-busting is a serious business when one stops to think of its inevitable consequences. Let us regulate, and not destroy; bottle, but not bust. —Leslie's Weekly.

CONTEST FOR SEAT

MAY BE INSTITUTED BY A REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE.

Claims Night Rider Tactics Were Used to Bring About Election of Bob Thomas.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Dec. 3.—Walker Kilkins, of Central City, and Sparks & Belcher, of Greenville, are engaged as attorneys gathering evidence in the proposed contest by Dr. A. D. James for the seat in congress won by R. Y. Thomas, Jr., on the face of the returns in the Third district. The Republican district and state committees are behind the investigation and, it is stated, if the evidence indicates that Dr. James' defeat was not due to the legal vote, the contest will be instituted.

It is alleged by Republicans that in some precincts in Todd county notices were left in the rural delivery boxes of many negroes to the effect that if their precincts did not go Democratic their barns would be burned. Some of these were signed "N. R." and are said to be in possession of the Republicans.

It is charged also that in different precincts in Logan county the Republicans were denied representation on the election boards. It is also claimed that Simpson county gave abnormal Democratic returns.

CAUGHT IN STORM

MINISTERS TRAMP THROUGH A BLINDING SNOW 20 MILES.

On Treacherously Thin Ice Across Lake in Northern Minnesota—Missionary Trip.

St. Paul, Dec. 3.—The Pioneer Press, of Duluth, says: Through a raging blizzard with the mercury hovering low in the tube, five ministers of the gospel fought their way across twenty miles of treacherous ice on the lake all day Monday.

The party was composed of Dr. E. C. Clemans, district superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal church; Dr. H. Nicholson, superintendent of the Litchfield district; Rev. Thomas Grice, pastor of the Auburn Methodist Episcopal church, of West Duluth; Rev. Peter Lightfoot, an Indian missionary at Ashwa, and G. A. Armstrong, of Cork county, Ireland.

The party was returning from a missionary trip among the Indians of northern Minnesota and started to cross Pelican Lake from the town of Orrs. They had not been on the lake an hour when a snowstorm set in and soon turned to a fierce blizzard. They walked blindly on, mile after mile, not knowing the direction in which they traveled and every moment running the risk of sinking through the treacherously thin ice. With the assistance of two Indian guides they finally arrived at Orrs, almost exhausted.

How Marshall Field Made Money.

"In the early '80s, when the First National bank of Walla Walla was not as big as it is now, I pretty nearly had my breath taken away one day by a good looking stranger hailing from Chicago. He threw a letter of credit for $50,000 from a Chicago bank on my desk, and quietly said: 'Can you cash that?' I looked him over once or twice, made a quick estimate of all the loose cash I thought I could scrape up, and said: 'Yes. How do you want it?' 'I think I'll take it in land.' In a month's time, as his authorized agent, I bought about 30,000 acres of cheap railroad land for my Chicago friend, taking the deeds in my name at his request, paying an average of $2.65 an acre. He cleared over a million dollars on this one deal. His name was Marshall Field."—Senator Ankeny's Reminiscences in Leslie's Weekly.

Pygmies Who Are Cannibals.

The dense forest along the banks of the Semliki, in eastern Africa, is densely inhabited by pygmies. They are cannibals and when pressed for food exchange their children for those of other families. They refuse to eat members of their own families. At the southern end of the frontiers of the Congo Independent State there are people recognizing no head. The whole community, however, is dominated by a clan of witch women who are extremely hostile to Europeans.—New York Tribune.

Capacious Eaters.

One day Dr. Norman McLeod, who was a large and healthy man, and one of his burly elders, went to pay a visit to a certain Mrs. MacLaren of the congregation, who lived in the Scotch hills. She was a frugal woman, but determined that they should have the best in the house. So she piled the table with jellies and jam and preserves and shortbread, and they partook unsparingly. After the meal the elder said to her: "Mrs. MacLaren were you at the Kirk on Sunday?" "Oh, aye," she said. "I was." "And what did you think of the treatment of the miracle?" (the sermon had been on the loaves and fishes). "I thought it was good," said Mrs. MacLaren. "And what is your idea on the subject, Mrs. MacLaren?" asked the minister.

"Losh," said their hostess, suddenly: "I'm thinkin' that if you and the elder had bin in the congregation, there wadna bin twelve baskets of fragments for the disciples to gather up!"

SMASHED WINDOW

And Extracted Lot of Jewelry From Michaelson's Pawn Store.

Cairo, Ill., Dec. 3.—About 1:30 o'clock this morning a negro smashed one of the big plate glass windows in the front of Michaelson's pawn store, on Commercial avenue, making a jagged opening at the bottom, through which he extracted ten or a dozen pieces of jewelry, mostly empty watch cases, and dashed down Commercial avenue, toward the railroad yards. He was seen by a deaf mute, who gave the alarm as quickly as possible, but the rascal made his escape. The jewelry he got was not very costly. The window probably cost more, being a fine sheet of glass worth $86, besides the cost of setting it in place.

WITH STRONG CORD

A PATIENT AT WESTERN ASYLUM
HANGS HERSELF.

She Succeeded in Eluding Vigilance of Attendant, Who Was Only Fifteen Feet Away.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Dec. 3.—Mrs. Gussie Boas, a patient from Fulton, committed suicide at the western Kentucky asylum for the insane last Sunday morning. She was known to be afflicted with a persistent suicidal mania and close watch was kept on her all the time, and even when she took her life an attendant was within fifteen feet of her but so quietly did she carry out her plans that the attendant did not discover the attempt until it was too late to save her life. Mrs. Boas secured the strong cord with which the bed tick in her room was laced, and fastened this about her neck and the other end to the grating of the shaft she was strangled to death.

The body was taken to Fulton for burial.

S.S.S. THE REMEDY FOR SORES AND ULCERS

The combination of healthful vegetable ingredients of which S. S. S. is composed, makes it an especially desirable and effective remedy in the treatment of sores and ulcers of every kind. Since an impure condition of the blood is responsible for the trouble, a medicine that can purify the blood is the only hope of a successful cure; and it should be a medicine that not only cleanses the circulation, but one that at the same time restores the blood to its normal, rich, nutritive condition. S. S. S. is just such a remedy. It is made entirely of healing, cleansing vegetable properties, extracted from nature's roots, herbs and barks of the forest and fields. It has long been recognized as the greatest of all blood purifiers, possessing the qualities necessary to remove every impurity in the blood. When S. S. S. has purified the circulation, and strengthened and enriched it, sores and ulcers heal readily and surely, because they are no longer fed and kept open by a continual discharge into them of irritating disease-laden matter from the blood. S. S. S. brings about a healthy condition of the flesh by supplying it with rich, nourishing blood and makes a permanent and lasting cure. BIGGEY MAY HAVE SUICIDED

San Francisco Chief of Police Was Worried.

Different Theories Are Advanced Regarding Frisco Police Chief's Death.

TENDERED HIS RESIGNATION

San Francisco, Dec. 3.—Chief Biggey the night before his tragic death by drowning from a gasoline launch, tendered his resignation to Police Commissioner Kell, at the latter's home, in Belvedere, claiming that he (the chief) had been hounded by the opposition press and graft prosecution. Mr. Kell refused to accept the resignation. Biggey then took a patrol boat back to the city and was drowned.

The consensus of opinion seems to be that Biggey's death was an accident similar to many others that have figured in the annals of the harbor.

There are some who assert that Biggey did commit suicide, he did so while laboring under an intense mental strain. His mental distress during the past fortnight was so apparent, that all who were thrown in contact with him noticed it in a marked degree.

When questioned at the harbor police station, Captain Conby, who commanded the police boat patrol when it made its second trip in search of the body of Chief Biggey, and then proceeded to Belvedere to notify Commissioner H. D. Kell, at his house on Beach road, made the following statement:

"I found the commissioner up and partly dressed and the lights lit in his house, and he was very much agitated."

In reply to questions, he went on to say:

"I went to tell him the news. He was walking back and forth, apparently very much disturbed, and when I told him that Chief Biggey was missing from the launch patrol and what Engineer Murphy had said, he replied:

"I knew it."
"After he had dressed and come down to the launch he went with us on the trip back. Later on he said he learned the news about the chief from San Rafael, in an indirect way."

Police Commissioner Kell gave out the following statement:

May Not Be Dead.
"On entering the house the chief complained about feeling very cold."

MILLIONS OF LIVES LOST.

The Awful Toll Collected By Consumption.

If people could only understand that Catarrh is an internal scourge—that nothing applied externally does much good—they would not need to be warned so often about this fatal disease, which, when neglected, invariably ends up in Consumption, at the cost of millions of lives every year. Yet Catarrh is easily cured if the right treatment is employed.

Catarrh is caused by germs in the blood which circulate throughout the entire system. External remedies give but temporary ease. Although the effects are often seen in the form of pimples, rash, eczema or dry scaly skin, the trouble is internal and can never be cured by external remedies.

The only way to cure Catarrh is by employing a medicine which is absorbed and carried by the blood to all parts of the system, so that the mucous membrane or internal lining of the body is thoroughly medicated, soothed, disinfected of germ matter, and the soreness healed.

We have a remedy prepared from the prescription of a physician who for thirty years studied and made Catarrh a specialty and whose record of success was a cure in every case where his treatment was followed as prescribed. That remedy is Rexall Muc-Tone. We are so positive that it will cure Catarrh in all its various forms, whether acute or chronic, that we promise to return every penny paid us for the medicine in every case where it fails to cure or for any reason does not satisfy the user.

We want you to try Rexall Muc-Tone on our recommendation and guarantee. We are right here where you live, and you do not contract any obligation or risk when you try Rexall Muc-Tone on our guarantee. We have Rexall Muc-Tone in two sizes. The prices are 50c and $1. Very often the 50c size effects a cure. Of course, in chronic cases a longer treatment is necessary. The average in such instances is three $1 bottles.—W. B. McPherson, Paducah, Ky.

SKYSCRAPERS WILL BE TORN DOWN IN NEXT FIFTY YEARS

That the skyscrapers of Manhattan will be torn down in fifty years, and that the reason for their disappearance will be their essential unsafety, is the belief of John N. Booth, president of the Jamaica Cityzens' association, and one of the governors of the Queens Borough Real Estate Exchange. Mr. Booth declared in the Eagle of October 11 that the reason for the congestion of the traffic in the city was to be found, in no small measure, in the existence of the skyscrapers in Lower Manhattan, and that the congestion would exist so long as architects continued to construct these thirty and forty-story structures.

His opinion has since been endorsed by Augustine Rey, a famous French architect, recently in New York. Mr. Rey made the remarkable prediction that within twenty years, during which time they would pay for themselves, they would be destroyed and office buildings ten stories in height would be the rule.

While still holding to the belief that the bridge and subway crushes are due in large measure to skyscraper construction, Mr. Booth asserts that the traffic question will not be the cause of the limitation of tall buildings, but that this limitation, which is bound to come, will be brought about by the essential unsafety of these structures, and that this unsafe condition will be caused by electrolysis.

"Fifteen years ago," said Mr. Booth yesterday to an Eagle reporter, "when the building of these immense structures was in its infancy, I predicted that they could not last very many years. My reason is this: Each skyscraper has an iron framework. This framework is situated between the outer portion of the building, the stone ashlers, which are bound to it by strong wire, and the inner portion, the metal lath likewise connected. The lath completely hides from view the iron framework and is in turn covered by the plaster work. The iron work is covered on the outside by the ashlers.

Through each of these buildings enormous currents of electricity are surging each day. There are any number of electric light wires and telephone wires. It is an acknowledged fact that a great deal of electricity is dispatched in its transmission, perhaps as much as 80 or 90 per cent. This electricity, while dissipated from its original purpose, finds a lodging somewhere, and that somewhere, I believe, is in the iron framework of the building. A short while ago it was demonstrated in the case of the city sewers and water mains what damage the volts of electricity, continually charging through the pipes, can do to the iron. Huge holes were found to have been eaten into the metal, which was a subject of electrolysis. It is only reasonable to suppose that a similar effect will be produced upon the iron framework of the buildings, charged, each day, with thousands upon thousands of volts of electricity.

"Nor can this damage to the structure be readily ascertained. The wires connecting the metal lath and stone ashlers to the framework might be ready to disintegrate, and the framework itself might be in a deplorable condition, and about to give way and cause the fall of the buildings, and yet, completely covered as they are, they may not be noticed in the least. I believe that in fifty years' time the buildings now up will have become so unsafe that public policy will demand that they be torn down, and that no other such human beehives be constructed.

"Other evils of the skyscraper will add to the agitation against them. The traffic congestion problem, the fact that they are detrimental to the public health, that they prevent the proper circulation of fresh air and sunshine, that they lead to a monopoly of all available mortgage money, will contribute to their downfall. But the thing which will prevent their spread is not primarily any of these considerations. Men are not often moved by questions of mere public health or comfort to change from a certain profitable course but it will be because of sheer necessity, because these buildings cannot longer stand. When their construction was begun it was recognized that the skyscrapers were unsanitary. This consideration did not deter their building and will not deter it in the future. The question of their safety should be seriously considered, and I hope that it will receive the attention which it deserves."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Why Decapitation is Most Dreaded of All Chinese Punishments.

The common punishment of decapitation in China is considered to be the most severe of all punishments. This, to a Chinaman, is the greatest disaster which could possibly happen to him. He would rather die a thousand deaths, each more cruel than the other, if he could only retain a perfect body to the end. He believes that after death he goes into the "dark land" where life is continued much as it is in this world. He believes that if he is deprived of his head he will become a headless ghost and doomed to perpetual sorrow. Should he wish to marry, no woman would ever dream of taking a man without a head. His hands might grasp the chop sticks, but there would be no mouth to receive the food. He would never be able to find his road anywhere, and the shades in that mysterious land would start with terror from him as he groped his way through the shadows. Give any Chinese criminal a choice between decapitation and any of the most cruel deaths and he will instantly choose the latter.—New York Tribune.

MILLIONAIRES WHO HAVE PASSIONS IN COMMON WITH ALL

It is a peculiar fact, but true, nevertheless, that when conversation turns upon the subject of millionaires there arises in the mind a brain picture showing the ephemeral figure of a sordid man gloating and grasping at his golden hoard; a man of miserly expression, whose heart is buried in his wealth, whose soul is stirred by the musical clink of his coin. He is looked upon as a stranger to the finer feeling and sentiment of the ordinary person.

But when he is actually known, the owner of millions is found to be a really human being—speaking generally—a man who has the passions and weakness common to us all.

Take, for instance, the case of John D. Rockefeller during the recent financial crisis. The average person would have pictured the money king retiring to his room after business hours, worried and perplexed, scheming hard to make money out of the public panic. But the potent magnate did nothing of the sort. Directly he had paid over the money to stop the panic as far as he could, he slipped quietly away to his house boat, drew his favorite violin from its case and fiddled away until he was lost in rhapsody. A trivial circumstance in itself, but it reveals in a new light the subtle power of music.

Mr. Rockefeller's most absorbing indoor recreation is violin playing, and it is a question which lies close to his heart, his bow or his golf clubs. Not only has he mastered the violin, but he has studied the history of music and the art of the concert master. In his home circle he has organized a small orchestra, in which his son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., plays first violin. The latter is even a better performer than his father and in his college days was the star member of the Brown College Glee club. Both father and son are severe musical critics.

Charles Schwab, the steel magnate, is another type of millionaire who gives the lie to the old belief that the rattle of money alone is pleasant to the ear of the rich man. While sensitive in the highest degree to the rhythm of the hammer in the steel forge, Schwab can woo from the organ and the piano soul-stirring melody.

In the gorgeous music room of Mr. Schwab's palace on Riverside drive, like a rare jewel in a costly setting, stands his wonderful pipe organ. Here, when the day's work is done—for Mr. Schwab, though many times a millionaire, works as hard as any struggling manual laborer in his employ—he shuts himself up to court the gracious muse of music, and as his fingers stray over the keys the sordid cares of money getting and the greed for gold are all forgotten in delicate and subtly beautiful improvisations. As an improviser Mr. Schwab shows the innate skill of a true musical genius, and as an organist and pianist his work is consistently brilliant.

The giving away of libraries is the best known of Andrew Carnegie's pastimes. But the gift of organs to country churches is another of his hobbies, for he is passionately fond of all harmony. The instrument upon which this canny Scotch millionaire himself plays is a curious Japanese arrangement called "musical tubes." It consists of eight graduated metal tubes, suggesting the pipes of a miniature organ. It is played with a mallet. Scotch airs and national hymns are Mr. Carnegie's favorites on this queer but effective instrument.

In a home orchestra, similar to that of the Rockefellers, the late Cornelius Vanderbilt led his little family, all accomplished musicians, while his eldest son, the Cornelius of the present day, played first violin. Cornelius Vanderbilt the elder was a passionate lover of good music, and one time he spent $30,000 on a piano.

WHY SPERRY WAS WRONG.

Rear Admiral Sperry, whose unruffled dignity and legal trend of thought have given him the reputation of a just officer, far removed from wardroom jokes, was watching with interest a party of children who were being shown over the flagship, Connecticut while the fleet was here, says the San Francisco Chronicle. To a lieutenant who stood by his side he remarked on the intelligence the children evinced in the questions they were asking.

"Yes, sir," the lieutenant replied. "They will tell their fathers and mothers about this for months to come," the rear admiral went on, unbending a little in his interest in the children.

"No, sir," replied the lieutenant. "I say they will tell their parents about this when they get home," repeated the admiral.

"No, sir, they won't do that," replied the lieutenant.

"What do you mean?" asked the admiral, turning abruptly on the young officer.

"Beg pardon, sir, these are orphans."

Careful estimates show that the average business man walks a mile in eighteen and one-half minutes, while the ordinary loiterer, who has no business on his mind, requires twenty-nine minutes to walk it.

It so happened that Dr. Byers was in the Courier office when the telephone message was received and was told that by coming to Marion he could get to the Mayner farm much easier and cheaper than if he continued on to Ford's Ferry. He accordingly went to Marion and drove out to see the boy. After, as Mr.
